

Installation failure on Windows: Failure to create services

If you encounter a Failure to Create Services message when attempting to install Uptime Infrastructure Monitor on a Windows platform, the issue is likely related to user permissions.

To resolve the issue, please ensure that you are following installation best practices by logging in as Administrator on localhost rather than using your Active Directory account (regardless of the AD account's local admin rights).