Can Uptime Infrastructure Monitor and the database run on different operating systems?

Each Uptime Infrastructure Monitor component (data collector, user interface and database) can run on different physical servers with different operating systems.

The Uptime Infrastructure Monitor components communicate via a standard TCP regardless of which OS is being used. For example, the Uptime Infrastructure Monitor Monitoring Station may be installed on a Linux platform while the database uses SQL Server running on a Windows platform.